Industry News

Industry specialist for over 15 years, Kevin Winchester - formerly of Brita Vivreau and Zip Water - has joined The PureH2O Company (www.pureh2o.co.uk) the leading British manufacturer of water purification systems and the Quatreau Touch™ and Quatreau SmartTap™ which deliver boiling, chilled and sparkling water, as Sales Director.

PRESS RELEASE QUOTES

Kevin Winchester commented: "I have always been very passionate about and committed to delivering the best water systems available across both corporate and domestic environments. I am very excited to be working with The Pure H2O Company as they continue to lead the market with the most innovative purification systems and now, with the introduction of the most advanced multifunction taps (SmartTaps <http://www.pureh2o.co.uk/taps.html>), supporting the delivery of the safest and highest quality water on the market. Being part of a company that has been wholeheartedly dedicated to improving water quality globally for over 30 years and has been at the forefront of innovation and champions the removal of single-use plastics is a fantastic opportunity. I look forward to introducing the most innovative water systems to the UK and the wider global community".

Roger Wiltshire, Founder commented: "We are very fortunate to have Kevin join the PureH2O team at this exciting time in our company's history. We continue to focus on addressing and solving global water issues and providing the best products to our customers, which ensure the safety and quality of their water, for life. For over 30 years, my father and I have been at the forefront of the development of water quality delivery and the removal of single-use environmental plastics pollution. I am incredibly excited about the upcoming launch of our new product ranges, which continue to improve water quality and delivery to domestic and commercial sectors, globally".
